Gary,
Go ahead and start drafting a reply letter.
We can start by thanking them for the information that was provided.
Then we can say that we do not believe that the PRPs influence the CAC to agreeing that the Cap was a permanent remedy
From the start, EPA made it very clear to the PRPs that the cap was not a permanent remedy, it was only a temporary to stabilize the pits.
That the PRPs had to conduct the remedial investigation to fully delineate the contamination and prepare both Human Health and Eco risk assessments to determine what contaminants posed a risk and over what areas. The PRPs would then prepare a feasibility study to evaluate alternatives to address the risk.
EPA, in consultation with TCEQ, and input from stakeholders and the community would select the remedy for the site.

In the first draft Feasibility Study presented by the PRPs, they include their preferred alternative. EPA commented to the PRPs that they do not select the preferred alternative, that that is EPA's responsibility.

In the revised FS submitted in March 2014, the PRPs did not include a preferred alternative (correct?).

All documents and submittals from the PRPs are being reviewed by EPA, TCEQ, Harris County, Houston Port Authority, Federal and State Trustees, TAG?, etc. Also the Corps of Engineers reviews certain reports/documents.

Work with Anne and Donn on additional language and information. CAS
